UNDERSTANDING YOUR FEEDBACK REPORT

Reading this report is the first step in a proven process of personal growth and learning. Our four-step process of Read, Reflect, Plan and Execute helps you turn the feedback you receive into measurable growth. To get the most out of this experience, you will need to understand this report thoroughly, so please take the time to review this introductory material instead of jumping immediately to your results.

Read: First, we present the data that was collected from your colleagues. That includes raw scores, percentile scores, and specific feedback from your raters.

Reflect: Then we provide a worksheet to record your reflections. This is a very important step in the process, so please take the time to complete it.

Plan: Identify two goals for personal development and create an action plan to achieve those goals. We provide a number of development resources to help you in this process. Click on the competency names in the results section to get more information.

Execute: The most important part of the process is execution. You have to work your plan. We encourage you to enlist the help of a coach or mentor to discuss your progress on a regular basis.

What was assessed by the G360 survey?

The G360 Virtual Leader Pulse gives managers feedback that can help them become more effective leaders. We looked at the characteristics of successful leaders and found a number of common traits. First of all, these competencies are developed over time and it's never too late to improve on them. In fact, if you pay attention to these eight competencies, you will increase your chances of success in life. The old adage rings true here: What gets measured, gets managed. Focus on these attributes and you will see impressive results in both your personal and professional lives. Take this survey often and watch your scores improve.

INTERPRETING THE RESULTS

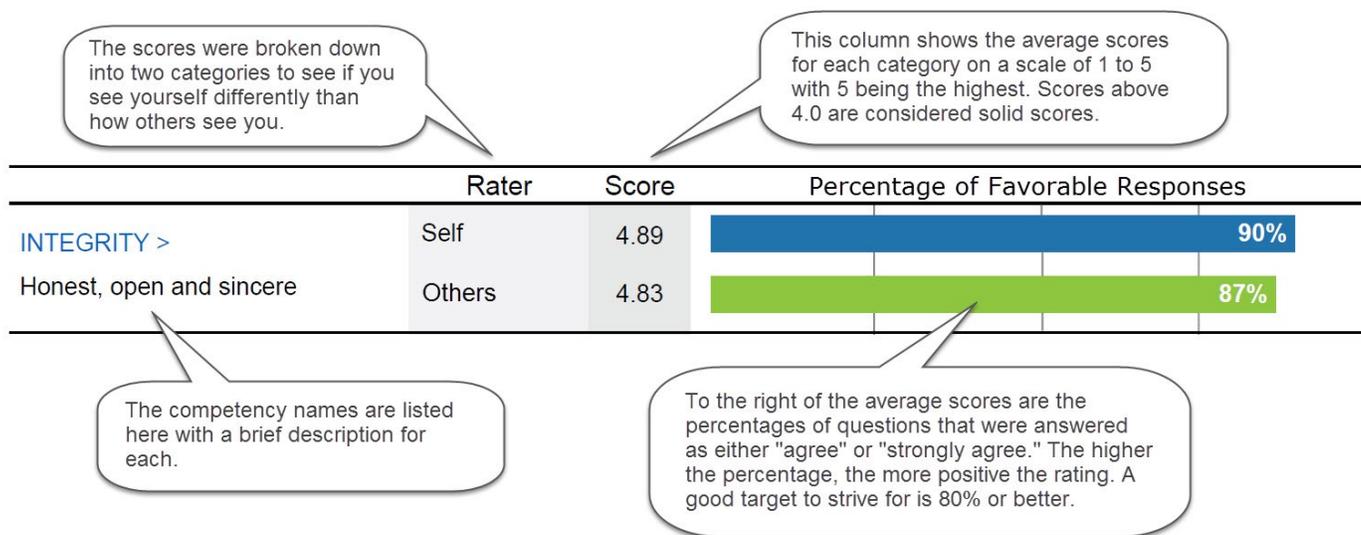

There are three types of results presented in this report: strengths, competency scores, and personal feedback.

STRENGTHS

Participants were asked to select three strengths that describe you from a large list of options. The results are presented in a word cloud where strengths that were mentioned multiple times are in a larger font.

COMPETENCY SCORES

The bar chart shows your scores for each of the core competencies that were measured in this survey. Questions were answered from strongly disagree (1) to strongly agree (5) and averaged together.

Below each chart are four symbols that identify high scores, low scores, hidden strengths, and blind spots.

- High Scores are defined as the top 25% of scores from surveys completed in the last four years. They are strengths to be built upon.
- Low Scores are defined as the bottom 25% of scores from surveys completed in the last four years. They are barriers to success.
- Hidden strengths are areas in which you rated yourself at least a half point lower than another rater group. You are doing better than you think.
- Blind spots are areas in which you rated yourself at least a half point higher than another rater group. Blind spots can be problem areas that you are not aware of.

PERSONAL FEEDBACK

Underneath the competencies are optional comments from your raters. They were asked to provide information about your specific strengths, areas for growth, and suggestions for improvement. These comments can offer you valuable insight into what you are doing well and what you can improve upon.

PERSONAL FEEDBACK

- I do think Sam is aware of some of his personal weaknesses, and I have seen some improvement in them over the past couple of years. He is a hard worker and is very committed to the success of our company, but doesn't always take the time to check in with me to see what I might need from him.
- Sam is super smart and has earned the respect of the team. It's clear that he is committed to the company and works very hard to achieve our goals. It's been a pleasure having him as my boss.
- Sam is a very capable and smart leader. He knows our industry very well and has a wealth of knowledge. Perhaps we could do some periodic one-on-one meetings so the younger members of the team can get some additional coaching and direction.
- I appreciate how efficient our zoom meetings are. I get what I need and can get back to work without wasting a lot of time. Thank you!
- Working in a virtual environment has been a bit of a challenge for me. I'm not always sure I'm going about my responsibilities the right way. Sam always seems to be in a hurry so I don't feel comfortable asking for help. I think that many of us need a little more direction and feedback on how we are doing.
- Sam is a good manager but I wonder if we could spend some time checking in with each other more regularly. I'm not sure what's going on with other members of the team since our meetings have been very focused on the project.

GOAL SETTING GUIDANCE

“Leadership is the capacity to translate vision into reality through planning.”

Warren Bennis

Author and Leadership Expert

An awareness of your strengths and weaknesses is not enough to improve your performance. You must take the two goals you wrote down on the previous page and turn them into smart goals. They should be specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and time-bound. Click on each of the competencies in the previous charts for additional resources such as sample action plans and recommended books, articles, and videos.

Specific	Describe, in detail, what you want to accomplish. Include the who, what, when, where, and why of your goal.
Measurable	Pick a goal that can be easily measured and define how you will evaluate your success.
Attainable	Make sure that your goal is within your reach. Overly ambitious goals will not be taken seriously.
Relevant	Consider what’s important to your organization and tailor your goal to help you become more successful within that context.
Time-bound	Set a deadline for completion of your goal. Otherwise, it is at risk of being put on the “back burner” and forgotten.

EXAMPLES OF SMART GOALS

- Improving Communication: As project leader, I will set up a shared online document by Feb 17th that includes our project timeline, a description of each members’ roles and responsibilities, and minutes from our weekly meetings.
- Improving Encouragement: In the next three months, I will make three positive comments during our weekly staff meetings to encourage team members and to improve team morale. At the end of that time, I will ask my team leader if she has noticed any change in my behavior.

TIME TO CREATE A PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Take your revised SMART goals and transfer them to the next page. It’s time to transform your goals into action plans. You will identify three to five specific things you need to do to achieve each goal and assign a deadline for each of them. This is the most important part of the G360 feedback process. Setting realistic goals and executing detailed action plans is the key to success. Individuals who work hard to improve their skills almost always outperform those who don’t.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN

What is your first goal?

What specific action steps do you need to take to achieve your goal?

By when?

What is your second goal?

What specific action steps do you need to take to achieve your goal?

By when?

Identify two people with whom you will discuss your goals and action plans.

- 1. _____
- 2. _____

Schedule two checkpoints to revisit and adjust your goals as necessary. Put these dates on your calendar.
